

Instructions For Bloodroot Salve Only

Having first verified with your medical practitioner that your skin growth (in the case of a mole) is benign, following these instructions:

- Using your "little finger" simply apply enough of the paste to cover the wart or mole which you wish to treat. Make sure the site is covered well. Apply a bandage over the area to insure that the paste is not wiped off.
- Every two days, remove the bandage, apply fresh paste, and place a new bandaid or bandage back on. This may seem wasteful to some, but the amount of product you use, remember, is very little; the purpose of new, fresh product, is to ensure that there is a sufficient concentration of the alkaloids in the bloodroot working on the target growth to get the job done. Complete this cycle until the wart or mole has receded to the same level as the surrounding skin. When you pass your hand over the area, you should not feel any protruding skin growth of any kind.
- Time Frame: The time frame varies from user to user: generally, you begin to see results within the first week. Rarely does it take greater than a month for the entire process to take its course.
